One of our most prominent city divines was describing the wonderful spread of the Cospel and said, very justly, that it was the more remarkable from the character of most of its first propagators. He then enlarged upon the constantly argmenting number of their successive coadquors and particularized Athanasius, St. Augustine, Luther Zuinglins, Calvin, and Tradelo. It was not to be expected that he would name all two were worthy of notice, but I did listen for Melanethon and Wycliffe, if not for Huss, Erasmus, and Knox.

At length he compared the present multitude of those who are engaged in the grand civilizing work of enlarging the irrumpants of the Cross, to the Mikky Way. "that immense cluster of stars, spanning the irrumpants of the Cross, to the Mikky Way. "that immense cluster of stars, spanning the irrumpants of the Cross, to the Mikky Way is the same as the other, whereas the number of the Apostles was small and the band of their successors has gone on and will go on widening and extending."

THE LATEST MODES FOR AFTER- UTILY A LENT GAYETIES.

Evening Dress-A Reception Costume-A Dinner Tollet-A "Racing" Dress-Head-Gear and Odds and Ends,

New York, April 12, 1890.

Lent being passed, our birds of fine plumage begin to shake out their feathers again, and evening gowns and robes of ceremony become once more a not uninteresting topic among our ladies of fashion. EVENING DRESS.

The girl who desires to be very much in style and who desires to be very much in style and who desire to be to the merest source of fastness that may cling about her goings on has included in her ward-robe a starling, brilliant, and variceolored creation she calls her "racing dress" and which appears on racing-days, surmounting the nattiest of drags at the most cities of the subprehen tracks.

over many of the cracks. He said:
"Judging from present information as to the condition of the entries, I like Kingston, with Longstreet and Tenny for the Brookiyn Handicap—that is, on the sunposition that Raceland and Procetor Knott don't start in that event. For the Suburban Raceland, Procetor Knott, and Salvator are most to my liking, and Tenny for the Tobogran-Side handicap.

Hanover does not seem to be much talked about; indeed it is believed by many that he will not be in either event. If he couli be made fit, and if that rebellions leg were in shape, he might even yet have a chance of coming to the front as a strong favorite. As it is, the grand old prize-winner is almost neglected.

Within the next two weeks the racers will begin to come East and undergo the final preparation for the coming contests. The Dwyer cracks are already under extra handling, and manner McCabe pronouncess their condition perfect. In the Belmont stables at habylon, Long Island, Trainer Roye has his charges in prime condition. Haceland looks like a two-year-old, so little does he show the effects of his hard races, the canters around with a hitle English lad perched on his back like a crow on a house-top. He is gentle as a kitten, but looks quite fit to connead in the great battle next month, which will decide which of the many famous horses entered is to be hailed as king of the American furf.
